INDIAN COUNCIL OF WORLD AFFAIRS

VISION

An Act of Parliament in 2001 declared the ICWA to be an 'institution of national importance' and laid down its objectives:

To promote the study of Indian and international affairs so as to develop a body of informed opinion on international matters.

To promote India's relations with other countries through study, research, discussions, lectures, exchange of ideas and information with other organisations within and outside India engaged in similar activities.

To serve as a clearing house of information and knowledge regarding world affairs.

To publish books, periodicals, journals, reviews, papers and pamphlets.

To establish contacts with organisations promoting these objectives.

To arrange conferences and seminars to discuss and study Indian policy towards international affairs.

To undertake such other activities as may be necessary for the promotion of ideas and attainment of the above mentioned objects.

ABOUT ICWA

The Indian Council of World Affairs (ICWA) was established in 1948 by a group of eminent intellectuals led by Sir Tej Bahadur Sapru and Dr. H.N. Kunzru. Its principal objective was to create an Indian perspective on international relations and act as a repository of knowledge and thinking on foreign policy issues.

The Council today conducts policy research through an in-house faculty as well as through external experts. It regularly organizes an array of intellectual activities including conferences, seminars, roundtable discussions, lectures and brings out a range of publications. It has a well stocked library, an active website, and publishes the journal 'India Quarterly'.

ICWA has over 50 MoUs with international think tanks and research institutions to promote better understanding on international issues and develop areas of mutual cooperation. The Council also has partnerships with leading research institutions, think tanks and universities in India.

The activities include in-house research, publications, bilateral dialogues, international conferences, seminars, lectures and outreach activities in India and abroad.
